KEEP YOUR DOG ON ITS LEASH

Whether you're walking around the block or on a trail, your dog must be on a leash at all times. Keeping your animal on a leash ensures everyone's safety, and failing to leash your pet can result in an $85 fine, so clip that leash on whenever your pet leaves the house.

EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS: PREPARE YOUR FINANCES

Much of emergency preparedness involves storing water and supplies, but you also need to be financially ready for emergencies. Follow these steps to prepare your finances:

1. Ensure you have adequate insurance coverage for the hazards you might encounter. Flood and earthquake coverage are not included in your standard policy.
2. Have some emergency cash or traveler's checks set aside in a safe, secure place. Remember that banks, ATMs, and credit card readers may be inaccessible or inoperable in a disaster.
3. Set aside an emergency only credit card (if they work). Use a designated card with enough available credit to last you a week or more. Making purchases on this credit card will help you document disaster related expenses, which may be reimbursed by your insurance company or other assistance program.
4. Keep a log of account numbers and phone numbers for lending institutions (credit cards, mortgage, car loans etc.) and insurance companies.
5. Place important documents in waterproof package inside a fireproof box. If you choose to rent a safe deposit box at a financial institution, pick one away from your area so it may not be affected by the same geographical disaster.

Make sure you review your financial readiness and update information yearly. For a more in-depth look into financial preparedness check out FEMA's Financial First Aid Kit and Checklist at emergencymangement.ogdencity.com.
